

New N Gauge Class 67 Releases

Class 67 Background

The Class 67 is a Bo-Bo diesel electric main line locomotive built for the English, Welsh and Scottish (EWS) Railway between 1999 and 2000. They were built in a joint venture between Alstom in Valencia and General Motors Diesel who supplied the main drivetrain. Thirty locomotives were ordered as Class 47 replacements for use on high speed mail and passenger trains. After several modifications, the Class 67 was passed for 125mph running in June 2003. After the termination of the Royal Mail/EWS contract in 2003, the locomotives passed on to other operators including First Scotrail and Wrexham & Shropshire who then, after the operator's closure, passed them on to Chiltern Railways. Two Class 67s were used for the prestigious Royal Trains, Queens Messenger and Royal Sovereign. Other special liveries included a red livery with white maple leaf in honour of the former EWS and DB Schenker UK Chairman Keith Heller. This was modelled by Dapol during 2011.

The Dapol Class 67 includes the following features:

- Finely detailed moulded body, chassis and bogies
- Detailed and finely printed graphics
- NEM pockets as standard
- Directional lighting
- DCC fitted models available
- Skew wound 5 Pole Super Creep Motor for excellent slow speed control
- All wheel pick up with tungsten chassis for fantastic haulage
- Detailing and accessory pack included
- Dapol's low friction mechanism for efficient quiet running

Photographs are of decorated samples – not finished models

Dapol are delighted to announce the production of 4 more N Gauge Class 67's. Details can be found below. Production volumes are restricted, so place your order ASAP with your local stockist to avoid disappointment.
